

Protect Teen Girls from Abortion and Sex Abuse

Support Parental Notification

The Problem:

Did you know? In California, a girl under 18 years can't get a flu shot, a cavity filled, or an aspirin dispensed by the school nurse without a parent knowing. BUT a doctor can perform a surgical or chemical abortion on a minor girl (under 18) without informing her parents.

The Solution: Parental Notification

Parental Notification will require that a physician notify a parent at least 48 hours before performing an abortion on a minor girl under the age of 18.

- Over 16,000 abortions are performed yearly in California on teens under age 18 years. These teens suffer emotional and medical consequences as a result of abortion.
- On a daily basis, older men impregnate teen girls and pressure them (without their parents' knowledge and protection) to have secret abortions to cover up crimes of statutory rape.
- More than 35 states currently have Parental Involvement Laws in place. These states have experienced significant reductions in pregnancies and abortions among teen girls.
- Parents know their daughters' needs best. They know her medical and mental history. Shouldn't a parent be involved when a young teen girl is facing a pregnancy?

A father in California came home early from work one day to find his 15-year-old daughter had tried to commit suicide by drug overdose. He learned that his daughter had been impregnated by her 33-year-old karate instructor who said he'd commit suicide if she didn't have an abortion. So, against her wishes and her deeply held belief that abortion was murder, she had the abortion. Because of the grief and guilt, she attempted suicide. Had her father not come home early that day, she would have succeeded.

A Planned Parenthood affiliate in Arizona was found civilly liable for failing to report the fact that the clinic had performed an abortion on a 13-year-old girl who had been impregnated by her 23-year-old foster brother. The abortion provider did not report the crime and the young girl was returned to the foster home where she was raped and impregnated a second time.

A Kansas man sexually assaulted his stepdaughter, age 11, and then took her for an abortion at Central Women's Services. The clinic did not report the rape but instead sent the girl home in the "care" of her stepfather, where she and her 12-year-old sister continued to be abused, resulting in three pregnancies and another abortion, which also was not reported.

A 13-year-old Ohio girl was impregnated by her coach who then persuaded her to have an abortion. Planned Parenthood did not report the abuse nor did they comply with the state's own parental notification law. Three days after the abortion, the coach resumed having sex with the girl and then abandoned her. Only months later did her parents learn what had happened. The coach was sentenced to a prison term. Planned Parenthood denies any wrongdoing and is fighting against the parent's lawsuit.

A 36-year-old Nebraska man impersonated the father of a 16-year-old girl that he impregnated in an attempt to obtain an abortion for her, and thus hide any evidence of statutory rape of the girl.

A 12-year-old, mentally challenged girl was repeatedly sexually assaulted by her mother's live-in boyfriend. Twice these assaults resulted in the girl becoming pregnant. Both times, the boyfriend forced the girl to have an abortion. Finally, after the second abortion, the clinic reported the crime, and the boyfriend was sentenced to thirty years in prison.

An Oregon abortion clinic performed an abortion on an 11-year-old girl, yet failed to report the sexual abuse as required by law. The abuse was disclosed to authorities only because the abortion was incomplete and the girl was taken to the hospital where a doctor reported the abortion and abuse.

In Connecticut the case of a 10-year-old girl being impregnated by a 75-year-old man went unreported. The child was examined by two physicians, but neither reported the sexual abuse to the authorities. Instead they referred the little 10-year-old girl to an abortion clinic.

Kevon Walker, 22, impregnated his 14-year-old "girlfriend" three times in six months, resulting in three abortions. The clinic never notified the authorities.

Parental Notification will require a doctor to notify a parent at least 48 hours before performing an abortion on a daughter 17-years-old or younger.
